Development Impact of “Khat”: Turning a Porter to Exporter (Table 1)

By

Mulugeta Assefa (Haramaya University)
Habtemariam Kassa (Center for International Forestry Research) and Yared Mammo (Haramaya University)

A Paper presented at

ESF-LIU Conference:
The Changing Use and Misuse of Catha edulis (Khat) in a Changing World:
Tradition, Trade and Tragedy
Held at
Scandic Linkoping Vast, Sweden, 05-09, October 2009
Introduction/Perspective

- Socioeconomic
  - Production
  - Trade
  - Revenue

- Policy
Impacts

- Development
  - Socioeconomic
  - Health
  - Education
Prospect

- The farmer
- Mustafa the Trader/Exporter (table 1)
- The Consumer
- The Researcher
- The Government
Concluding remarks

- “If it works, don’t fix it!” So runs an old, and prudent, maxim

- Systematic biochemical study prior to any regulations!