

Development Impact of “Khat”: Turning a Porter to Exporter (Table 1)

By

Mulugeta Assefa (Haramaya University)
Habtemariam Kassa (Center for International Forestry Research) and Yared Mammo (Haramaya University)

A Paper presented at

ESF-LIU Conference:
The Changing Use and Misuse of Catha edulis (Khat) in a Changing World:
Tradition, Trade and Tragedy

Held at

Scandic Linkoping Vast, Sweden, 05-09, October 2009

Introduction/Perspective

- Socioeconomic
 - Production
 - Trade
 - Revenue
- Policy

Impacts

- Development
 - Socioeconomic
 - Health
 - Education

Prospect

- The farmer
- Mustafa the Trader/Exporter (table 1)
- The Consumer
- The Researcher
- The Government

Concluding remarks

- “If it works, don’t fix it!” So runs an old, and prudent, maxim
- Systematic biochemical study prior to any regulations!