

ESCON2
TRANSFER OF KNOWLEDGE
CONFERENCE

Final Report

ESTORIL 5th-9th September 2012

Sponsored and financed by the European Science Foundation

1. Summary

The 2012 Transfer of Knowledge Annual Meeting of the European Social Cognition Network (ESCON) took place in Estoril, Portugal, from September 5th to September 9th, 2012.

The conference was jointly organized by three of the most prominent psychology departments in Lisbon namely from Faculdade de Psicologia da Universidade de Lisboa, ISPA, Instituto Universitário, ISCTE-Instituto Universitário de Lisboa.

The main goal of the conference was to provide a forum for the transfer of knowledge in Social Cognition for over 100 junior and senior researchers (ratio 70/30). Specifically this conference is designed to facilitate knowledge transfer regarding new scientific advances, supporting the training of a new generation of scientists in Social Cognition, in particular, current Ph.D. students. Informal exchanges and development of scientific and collaboration networks were highly encouraged.

Each presenter gave a 20 min presentation in one of the 20 thematic sessions chaired by a senior convener followed by a 10 min exchange and discussion session. Additionally, the 2012 conference included 4 “state of the Art” lectures by renowned experts in Social Cognition and related fields, which offered expert overviews of a particular topic or an integration with other related disciplines. The keynote speakers invited to the 2012 TKC were Gerald Echterhoff (University of Münster), Karl Halvor Teigen (University of Oslo), Rui Oliveira, ISPA, Lisbon), and Vera Hoorens (Catholic University of Louvain). A plenary session was also dedicated to the presentation of the research from this year’s winner of the Best Paper Award.

Participants arrived on September 5th and were accommodated in Palácio Hotel, Estoril located at approximately 45 min train journey from Lisbon International Airport. Participants had all their meal related expenses covered (most of which were at the hotel). There was one organized dinner out on the September, 6th. On the September 7th the sessions ended earlier and participants had the opportunity to sign up for a free social program, namely a touristic tour arranged by the Cascais City Hall. That night the participants had to provide for their own dinners.

The conference was put together by the organizing committee with the support of their respective institutions along with some graduate students who kindly volunteered to help. Overall, the conference was organized within the budget that was allocated for the event.

The general feedback both from the ESCON Steering Committee members and from the participants was extremely positive regarding the location, facilities and meals as well as the scientific program (the keynote addresses, the quality and the general dynamics of the sessions).

The keynote sessions stimulated lively debates that continued after the sessions.

2. Description of the scientific content of and discussion at the event

The participants

One hundred and thirty six researchers participated in the meeting<sup>1</sup>. From these 98 were selected by their own national ESCON coordinators (33 senior researchers and 64 graduate and post-doctoral students). The remaining participants were 16 members of the ESCON Steering Committee, 8 participants from the local organizing committee and 11 graduate students that volunteered to help with the organization of the conference.

The 98 participants selected by their respective national committees came from the following countries: Austria (3), Belgium (11), Cyprus (2), Czech Republic (1), Denmark (1), Finland (1), Germany (20), Ireland (2), Lithuania (1), Netherlands (24), Norway (1), Poland (6), Portugal (9), Switzerland (4), United Kingdom (11). Nine participants cancelled their participation<sup>2</sup>.

The parallel and plenary sessions

The complete program of the meeting can be found at the end of this document. Most major themes in Social Cognition research were covered. During the conference there were 4 parallel sessions (20 thematic sessions overall), and 5 plenary sessions (4 keynote talks and the best paper award talk).

An invited expert convened each parallel session. The convener's role was to coordinate the discussion stimulated by each work. Each participant presented his/her work in 20 minutes followed by a 15 minute period for debate and feedback. Long research summaries (800 words) were provided in advance to each convenor so that the session could be properly prepared.

Karl Halvor Teigen (University of Oslo)
- 3 A Constant Chatter: How Communication Shapes Speakers' Memory and Cognition
Gerald Echterhoff (University of Münster)
- 4 Simple minds: a comparative approach to social cognition
Rui F. Oliveira ISPA, Lisbon

The first three keynote speakers were invited to give an integrated overview of their cumulative work, which constitute central topics in current social cognition research. The last keynote speaker, an expert in comparative cognition, was invited to present an interdisciplinary perspective to the study of human cognition and behaviour.

3) Assessment of the results and impact of the event on the future direction of the field

The chief outcome of the conference was the opportunity to exchange ideas regarding the most recent scientific developments in the field of social cognition.

Moreover, the conference provided a unique venue for young researchers to present their research and receive extensive feedback from more senior researchers and leading experts in the field of social cognition.

The conference provided ample opportunity for interpersonal contact and exchange between diverse researchers across different European countries.

As such, we hope that this conference inspired the emergence of new scientific endeavors across Europe. The social program and the informal exchanges during meals and social activities were also meant to contribute to this goal.

Finally, the increased participation of the colleagues from new member countries endowed the conference with a new dynamic which we hope will be sustained in the future.
